11 Pending before the Court are two motions in limine filed by Plaintiff Aevoe Corp.
12 (“Plaintiff”).

13 Plaintiff first filed a Motion in Limine to exclude the purported expert testimony of Feon
14 Tan. (ECF No. 369.) Defendants AE Tech Co., Ltd, SF Planet Corporation, and Greatshield
15 Inc. (collectively, “Defendants”) filed a Response (ECF No. 385) and Plaintiff filed a Reply
16 (ECF No. 390). Because Plaintiff improperly filed a Reply without first seeking leave of Court, 17 as required by Rule 16-3(b), the Court granted Defendants leave to file a Surreply. (See ECF 18 Nos. 531, 536.)

19 Plaintiff also filed a Motion in Limine in which Plaintiff seeks to exclude the report and 20 testimony of John White. (ECF No. 371.) Defendants filed a Response (ECF No. 386) and 21 Plaintiff filed a Reply (ECF No. 391). Because Plaintiff improperly filed a Reply without first 22 seeking leave of Court, as required by Rule 16-3(b), the Court granted Defendants leave to file
23 a Surreply. (See ECF Nos. 531, 537.)

24 I. BACKGROUND

25 The Court has extensively discussed the factual background of this action in the Court’s

1 numerous prior orders. (See, e.g., Claim Construct Order, ECF No. 287; Order on Pl.’s Mot. for 2 Summ. J., ECF No. 599.) Plaintiff now seeks to exclude the testimony from two of 3 Defendants’ witnesses. First, Plaintiff seeks to exclude the “purported expert testimony of 4 Feon Tan.” (ECF No. 369.) Specifically, Plaintiff asserts that Defendants are effectively
 5 seeking to introduce Ms. Tan as an expert on the subject of infringement of the ’942 Patent.
 6 Plaintiff further asserts that Ms. Tan is unqualified as an expert on these subjects because she 7 lacks the appropriate level of skill in the art of plastics product design. Second, Plaintiff
 8 requests that the Court exclude the testimony of Defendants’ inequitable conduct expert, John 9 White, because Mr. White is purportedly unqualified to testify on the subjects discussed in his 10 Report. (ECF No. 371.)

11 II. MOTION TO EXCLUDE PURPORTED EXPERT TESTIMONY OF FEON TAN

12 The Court first finds that Plaintiff’s motion to exclude the testimony of Defendants’ 13 witness, Feon Tan, is MOOT. First, it appears that neither party disputes that Ms. Tan is not 14 qualified as an expert in the area of plastics product design. (Compare Pl.’s Mot. to Exclude 15 3:27–4:17, ECF No. 369 with Defs.’ Resp. 2:1–2, ECF No. 385.) Moreover, Plaintiff’s
 16 objection to Ms. Tan’s testimony relates solely to her opinions as they relate to Plaintiff’s claim
 17 of infringement. (See generally Pl.’s Mot. to Exclude, ECF No. 369 (characterizing Ms. Tan’s 18 testimony as “rebuttal to [Plaintiff’s infringement expert,] Dr. Kazmer”).) Because the court 19 has now entered judgment in favor of Plaintiff on its infringement claim, Plaintiff’s objection to 20 Ms. Tan’s infringement testimony is now MOOT.

21 III. MOTION TO EXCLUDE EXPERT REPORT AND TESTIMONY OF JOHN 22 WHITE

23 A. Legal Standard

24 In general, “[t]he court must decide any preliminary question about whether . . .
 25 evidence is admissible.” Fed. R. Evid. 104(a). In order to satisfy the burden of proof for Rule 104(a), a party must show that the requirements for admissibility are met by a preponderance of

1 the evidence. See Bourjaily v. United States, 483 U.S. 171, 175 (1987) (“We have traditionally 2 required that these matters [regarding admissibility determinations that hinge on preliminary 3 factual questions] be established by a preponderance of proof.”).

4 “Although the Federal Rules of Evidence do not explicitly authorize in limine rulings, 5 the practice has developed pursuant to the district court’s inherent authority to manage the 6 course of trials.” Luce v. United States, 469 U.S. 38, 41 n.4 (1984) (citing Federal Rule of 7 Evidence 103(c)). In limine rulings “are not binding on the trial judge, and the judge may 8 always change his mind during the course of a trial.” Ohler v. United States, 529 U.S. 753, 758 9 n.3 (2000); accord Luce, 469 U.S. at 41 (noting that in limine rulings are always subject to 10 change, especially if the evidence unfolds in an unanticipated manner).

11 Federal Rule of Evidence 702 provides for a qualified expert witness to testify in the 12 form of an opinion if the Court finds that:

- 13 (a) the expert’s scientific, technical, or other specialized knowledge will help the
- 14 trier of fact to understand the evidence or to determine a fact in issue;
- 15 (b) the testimony is based on sufficient facts or data;
- 16 (c) the testimony is the product of reliable principles and methods; and
- (d) the expert has reliably applied the principles and methods to the facts of the case.

17 Fed. R. Evid. 702. This rule incorporates the amendments made in response to Daubert v.
 18 Merrell Dow Pharmaceuticals, Inc., 509 U.S. 579 (1993) and its progeny, including Kumho
 19 Tire Co. Ltd. v. Carmichael, 526 U.S. 137 (1999).

20 B. Discussion

21 Plaintiff’s first argument relies on the Federal Circuit’s purported disapproval of the use
 22 of “patent law experts.” (Pl.’s Mot. to Exclude Testimony of John White 2:20, ECF No. 371 23 (asserting that the Federal Circuit holds “patent law experts . . . to an especially high level of 24 scrutiny).) The sole controlling authority for this argument appears to be a footnote in 25 Sundance, Inc. v. Demonte Fabricating Ltd., where the Federal Circuit stated that “[a] technically unqualified patent attorney can do much mischief by leading the jury to seemingly

1 sound conclusions without ever providing a well-grounded factual basis in the pertinent art.”
2 550 F.3d 1356, 1365 n.8 (Fed. Cir. 2008) (emphasis added). However, in Sundance, the 3 Federal Circuit was applying this potentially “high level of scrutiny” to an expert that was 4 seeking to provide testimony on issues of infringement and validity. Id. at 1361. Because these 5 issues are analyzed from the perspective of a person of ordinary skill in the art, the Federal 6 Circuit concluded that the patent attorney, who lacked the appropriate level of skill in the 7 relevant art, was inappropriate as an expert; she was “technically unqualified.” Id. Thus,
8 Sundance actually advises district courts to consider the perspective from which the relevant 9 issue of patent law will be analyzed when the court determines whether an expert is qualified to 10 testify as an expert on that issue. Id.

11 In contrast to inquiries into infringement and validity, the materiality prong of the 12 inequitable conduct inquiry is analyzed from the perspective of the PTO. See Ohio Willow 13 Wood Co. v. Alps S., LLC, 735 F.3d 1333, 1345 (Fed. Cir. 2013) (“[T]he analysis of this but-for 14 materiality requirement is from the perspective of the PTO.”). Accordingly, an appropriate 15 expert on this topic could be an individual who has knowledge of and experience with the 16 procedures of the PTO. Often, such an individual will be an attorney with experience
17 practicing before the PTO. As such, Plaintiff’s assertion fails; the Court will not exclude Mr.
18 White’s testimony purely because he is an attorney-expert.

19 Plaintiff next argues that Mr. White is not competent to testify on the subject of 20 inequitable conduct. The Court disagrees. A full understanding of inequitable conduct requires 21 an understanding of the PTO procedures that govern the patent application process. Mr. White 22 has been a practicing patent attorney for more than twenty-five years and is even a long time
23 instructor of a study course for the PTO registration exam. (Czajkowski Decl. Ex. 1, ¶¶ 2–5.)
24 Accordingly, there is certainly no indication that he is unqualified to testify as to 25 the practices and procedures during prosecution of patent applications before the PTO, the underlying facts regarding the prosecution of the ’942 patent, the duties

1 of good faith and candor owed to the USPTO, how a Patent Examiner would have 2 understood the submissions made by the applicants and their attorneys at the time 3 of the prosecution of the '942 patent, and why the USPTO would have wanted to consider the highly relevant prior art that was withheld.

4 (Defs.' Resp. 7:19–25, ECF No. 386.) Thus, based on Mr. White's report and his curriculum
5 vitae, the Court finds that Plaintiff has failed to carry its burden of showing that this testimony
6 is inadmissible pursuant to Rule 702. However, this does not mean that Mr. White is qualified
7 to opine on all the subjects on which Defendants may seek his opinion. The Court simply finds 8 that Plaintiff has failed to carry its burden of showing that Mr. White is unqualified as an 9 expert. Plaintiff, of course, is free to raise any specific objections if and when Defendants 10 attempt to elicit testimony from Mr. White at trial that is beyond the scope of his expertise.

11 IV. CONCLUSION

12 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Plaintiff's Motion to Exclude the Purported Expert 13 Testimony of Feon Tan (ECF No. 369) is DENIED as MOOT.

14 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Plaintiff's Motion to Exclude the Report and 15 Testimony of John White (ECF No. 371) is DENIED.

16 DATED this 20 day of August, 2014.
